To Whom It May Concern:

As a child psychiatrist, assistant professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School and the author of In Her Wake: A Child Psychiatrist Explores the Mystery of Her Mother's Suicide, I am pleased to write this letter in support of Scott Chisholm and the Collateral Damage project.

Scott is on a mission to help ease the pain of those who have lost a loved one to suicide by telling their stories in photographs. His images are strong and effective in capturing the longing these survivors feel and showing how love lasts longer than death.

I look forward to seeing this project progress.

Sincerely,

Nancy Rappaport MD
